

CONTENTS.

CHAPTER I.

BERMUDAS TO MADEIRA.

- Final Departure from Bermudas.—Temperature Sounding near the Island.—Manganese Concretions.—Gulf-weed.—Gnathophausia.—The General Aspect of the Açores.—Island of Fayal.—Horta.—Island of Pico.—San Miguel.—Ponta Delgada.—Orange Cultivation.—Excursion to Furnas.—Sete-Cidades.—The Garden of M. José do Canto.—A Religious Ceremony.—Arrival at Funchal. . . . . Page 9
- APPENDIX A.—Table of Temperatures observed between Bermudas and Madeira. 58
- APPENDIX B.—Table of Specific Gravities observed between Bermudas and Madeira. 60

CHAPTER II.

MADEIRA TO THE COAST OF BRAZIL.

- Return to Madeira.—The Black Coral.—Ophiacantha chelys.—Ophiomusium pulchellum.—Ceratias uranoscopus.—The Island of San Vicente.—Porto Praya.—The Island of San Iago.—A Red-coral Fishery.—The Guinea Current.—Balanoglossus.—Luminosity of the Sea.—St. Paul's Rocks.—Fernando Noronha.—Low Bottom Temperatures under the Equator.—Ceratotrochus diadema.—Pentacrinus Macleanus.—Dredging at Moderate Depths.—Arrival at Bahia. . . . . 61
- APPENDIX A.—Table of Temperatures observed between Madeira and Bahia during the months of July, August, and September, 1873. . . . . 116
- APPENDIX B.—Table of Serial Temperature Soundings down to 500 fathoms, taken between Madeira and Station CII. (Lat. 3° 8' N., Long. 14° 49' W.). . . . . 118
- APPENDIX C.—Table of Serial Temperature Soundings down to 200 fathoms, taken between Station CII. and Bahia. . . . . 118
- APPENDIX D.—Specific-gravity Observations taken between Madeira and Bahia during the months of July, August, and September, 1873. . . . . 119

CHAPTER III.

BAHIA TO THE CAPE.

- A Shower of Butterflies.—Bahia de Todos os Santos.—Excursion into the Forest.—San Salvador.—Hospitality of the English Residents.—Dredging in Shallow Water in the Bay.—A Case of Yellow Fever.—Fungia symmetrica.—Tristan d'Acunha.—Inaccessible Island.—Story of the Stoltenhoffs.—The Birds of Inaccessible Island.—The Habits of the Penguin.—Nightingale Island.—Subsequent History of Tristan d'Acunha.—To the Cape of Good Hope. . . . . 121