

process of the attachment of the young in their nursery, even if we could have arranged to keep specimens alive under observation. There can be little doubt that, according to the analogy of the class, the eggs are impregnated either in the ovarial tube

FIG. 38.—Cladodactyla crocea, LESSON. Stanley Harbor, Falkland Islands. Natural size.